E-Bike Campaign Wrap Up

Group rides can be fun, but every rider must remain predictable, follow traffic laws, and respect others using the road or trail. Speeding, performing wheelies, weaving through traffic, and blocking roadways can quickly lead to crashes and serious injuries.

It's recommended to keep right and leave room for other vehicles to pass. Ride in a single file when needed, on narrow or winding roads, for better visibility and control. Be aware of your position relative to cars and avoid traveling in their blind spots. Communication is key, so call out hazards, turns, and speed changes. Everyone is responsible for pointing out hazards and helping the group stay safe.

Ride smart. Stay in control. Make choices that keep the entire group and community safe.
